

The MRRA, an MMA affiliate, was organized as a Maine nonprofit, membership-based corporation in 1984 to:

foster professional solid waste management practices; further development of recycling and resource recovery as cost-effective, environmentally sound solid waste management; and assist with the marketing of recyclable and reusable materials.

Our goals are to:

promote communication and information exchange between members and markets, equipment vendors, state and federal governments, other state and national associations as well as among members themselves;

compile and develop information relevant to the education and technical assistance needs of Maine's solid waste and resource recovery programs; and promote market development and cooperative marketing opportunities.
